“The Best Marriage I know”

The best marriage that I know is Mrs. And Mrs. Clanton. They're always happy and take care of each other. They constantly help other people; they will do anything for anyone no matter what. They live their life for God, and love everyone.

They go out some nights and take pleasure in their loving and peaceful time together. They love everything about each other; you can tell that they care for each other very much. The way they act you can tell they are a happy couple because every time you see them you see a smile on their faces.

Mr. and Mrs. Clanton have been in my life for an extremely long time. The happy couple has showed me the kind of marriage I want in life through the years. They don't give up on anything even through tough times they just work things out and keep on moving through life.

Their life is really breathtaking! They live their life to the fullest. They taught me to love who I'm with, stay strong, and live happily and never give up in life because God has great plans in store for me in my future.

They also taught me that it's important to have someone that loves me in my life and to take care of me. And love me for who I am and not what they want me to be. They told me that a man should never hit a woman or talk awful to her.

When I need advice about love life, all I do is ask them and they always know what to say. It really doesn't matter what question I ask. The sweet couple will read to you from the Bible to help you understand more about life.

Marriage is a big deal on life. You're supposed to be there for one another and try to agree on things that affect things in both of people in the marriage. Equally a man and woman need support from each other.

Mr. and Mrs. Clanton love to communicate with everyone. It helps their life and everyone else's. The loving couple has been together for fifty years; that's an everlasting love to me. They say true love never ends, and I myself want to be just like them when I'm grown up.

It seems like they never get mad about anything. As much as I have been around them, I have never seen them mad, not even one time. They do not believe in divorce. They believe once you marry that someone special, you need to stay with them.

When you get married, that's a promise that you will always be with them through the good and the bad. They do not cheat or lie. They're with each other when one is sick, the other takes good care of them the best they can.

Every year on June 5th they go to the Smoky Mountains for their anniversary. They get away from everything and enjoy every minute of their time together. They love spending time together; they have fun with everything.

Mr. Clanton takes Mrs. Clanton out to eat at times. He is really good to her and always keeps her safe in every way that he can. They both trust each other and that is the way it is supposed to be. If you can't trust, you can't have a good relationship and bond between one another. When you listen to them, they always tell you what you want to hear. That's the best marriage I know.
